treat every game the same — play clean, smart baseball and continue to improve.

“We want to continue to clean up our small mistakes and go into these games knowing we’re a good enough team to beat anyone in our conference,” Pryor said. “It’s going to be an exciting atmosphere. Hopefully they don’t put extra stress on themselves.”

was the first coach to really get after me. Coaching at the high school level, I had to adjust to it. My first five years, I was too hard on kids. Now that I have my own kids, it’s changed the way I coach for sure.

Q: What are the core principles you try to operate by when building a foundation for a baseball team?

A: We know what we have coming and we work with our feeder system. You try to coach kids at an early age, so you can teach them what you’re looking for in high school. I’m looking for work ethic. I want kids that want to be there and play hard. In the winter time we spend a good deal of time conditioning and getting our arms in shape.

Q: Historically, what kind of teams have you worked with when it comes to Forest Park

baseball?

A: It’s been a wide variety, we have to adjust to whatever talent we have. When I first started coaching, our bats were hot. We crowded the plate and tried to hit the ball out of the park. Now that bats have changed, we might take a round of [batting practice] and hit one ball out. We’ve had teams where I’ve had really good speed and stole bases. We had teams that didn’t run real well. Every year is different. I’ve never been a big small ball guy. We bunt some, but I wouldn’t classify us as a small ball team.

Q: Defensively, what are some of the keys to a solid infield?

A: There’s three positions you need to be strong at: catcher, shortstop, and center field. The best teams that I’ve had, had catchers that could keep runners honest and throw runners out. Up the middle is the key, there’s no doubt about it. You’re not going to be a good ball club unless you’re strong up the middle.

Q: During your 19 years of coaching, what have been some of the high points you experienced?

A: We started off in the Blue Chip Conference, and we were very successful. Then we jumped into the PAC. We’ve won it a time or two. Of course our sectional win. We had a stretch where we won 90 games in four years. One of the biggest highlights I had was the number of kids we’ve had play collegiate baseball. We’ve had 17 or 18 kids play collegiately, and had several more that could have. That’s a testament to the athletes we’ve had.

Q: How much longer do you see yourself coaching?

A: I’d love to do it as long as I enjoy it. My oldest son (Drew) is a freshman, and I have a younger son that’s a seventh grader. I’d like to see those guys through, so that’s six more years. At the end of those six years if I’m still enjoying it, then great. Every year is a different challenge, but I’ve loved it. I love practice and player development. Even if I got out of coaching, I would still give lessons or work with hitters, catchers, infielders and do those things.
