

Artists launch exhibit with gallery talk

From Local Sources

The Krempp Gallery at the Jasper Arts Center will present the artwork of Jasper sculptor Kerri Mehringer and Jasper photographer Brian Bruner through Sunday, June 30. An opening reception will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday at the gallery, with both artists giving a brief gallery talk.

On the surface, an outward appearance can suggest something completely different than what hides below. Mehringer's sculptures are an exploration of tension and harmony that exists between nature and technology. In Mehringer's work, imagery is used that suggests complex intertwining, tangling, weaving and layers. Viewers are asked to consider what the relationships are. In some cases, the apparent erosion exposes elements that continue to allude to some connection. Creating these objects in stone-like material adds another layer of meaning, suggesting that an original object has been replaced and eroded.

While many methods of creating sculpture are very energy intensive and can be considered environmentally unfriendly, this series of sculptures is produced using organic materials and methods that have every little environmental impact.

Bruner is a travel and concert photographer. His passion for music, travel and culture has not only carried him across the country, but has taken him around the world. His photographs have been published in a wide variety of media, ranging from books, television and award show programs to being seen on Good Morning America, CNN, Farm Aid and in Goodyear advertisements.

"This series of photographs explores many of the facets of my photography — travel, music, and culture. These three topics describe my most treasured hobbies. These photos provide glimpses of life from Indiana to India, and different forms of being incorporated. My goal is for these images to take you alone on the adventure with me and more importantly, to bring a smile to your face," Brun-

Collection of essays on way

From The Associated Press

The actress and writer plans to release her third collection of essays through Amazon.com's Amazon Original Stories imprint. The book, currently untitled, is scheduled for the summer 2020. Amazon announced Tuesday that topics will include Kaling's experience as a single mother and working with Reese Witherspoon and Oprah Winfrey.

At Brookline Booksmith, in Brookline, Massachusetts, the store's co-owner and manager, Peter Win, says the general policy is to avoid Amazon releases. But Kaling has a special history at the Booksmith, where she appeared on one of her first stops while promoting the collection "Why Not Me." A possible compromise: Don't stock the new book, but agree to order it upon request.

"We're going to have to talk about this and figure out what to do," Win said.

The deal furthers Kaling's relationship with Amazon's film division, which acquired the U.S. rights to her comedy "Late Night." It opens Friday.

ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

All times are Eastern unless otherwise noted.

Current cinema

New releases

John Wick: Chapter 3 — Parabellum ★★★

Currently playing

Aladdin ★★★ (Jasper 8 Theatres) Despite a couple of large, genie-blue stumbles along the way, Guy Ritchie's live-action version of Disney's "Aladdin" is on balance a colorful and lively adventure suitable for all ages and a touching romance featuring two attractive leads. I liked the flying carpet, too. (Musical fantasy, PG, 2 hrs. 8 min.)

Godzilla: King of the Monsters ★½ (Jasper 8 Theatres) Five years after the world learned the hard way that supposedly mythic creatures are, in fact, real, everyone tries to figure out how to deal with them in a muddled and overlong sequel. As we get mired in heavy-handed lectures about how humans are the real monsters, it's all so ... serious. (Action fantasy, PG-13, 2 hrs 15 min.)

Rocketman ★★★½ (Jasper 8 Theatres) Hardly a standard showbiz biopic, this glitzy, ambitious and gorgeously appointed interpretive musical proves worthy of Elton John's glorious artistry. Taron Egerton delivers a powerful and resonant performance as the living music legend, and the film pulls no punches when focusing on Elton's mercurial personality and deep dives into addiction. (Music biography, R, 2 hrs. 1 min.)

On DVD

Captive State ★★★ Like every major city in 2027, Chicago is under the control of alien invaders, but a ragtag band of human insurgents is putting up resistance. Despite plenty of action, it's more cerebral social commentary than blood-and-guts sci-fi thriller. (Sci-fi thriller, PG-13, 1 hr.

49 min., 2019)
